Thesis and Projects (2017 – Present)

The thesis was the Snake game. It has its own levels and every time you pick up an apple, it has a mathematical question. It was intended to help kids learn while playing. It calculates random numbers that the program gives. With the game comes a login and admin page with options.

Next to that I have a website project and few other small projects.

You can see everything on my GitHub account <https://github.com/sradin96/Projects>
